

Five Signs You're an English Teacher

1. If your spouse or significant other gives you a love letter, you analyze it and pick out the grammatical errors.

2. You describe your desk as "organized chaos."

3. When you spill something on your shirt, you say, "Out damned spot."

4. You use words like ubiquitous and lugubrious when talking to your 7-year-old.

5. You named your dog Chaucer, your fish Hemingway, and your computer Wordsworth.